

God Is Important

Esau had special rights as the oldest son. He was to inherit the promises God had made to his grandfather Abraham. Read Genesis 25:27–34. What did Esau do that showed that God was not important to him?

How a person acts shows others how important God is to that person. Make up an ending to each of these short stories. Your endings should show how the person will act if God is important to him or her. Tell your endings to a friend or to one of your parents.

- The guys were throwing stones at passing cars. "Come on, Tim," they said. "It's fun. Here, take this stone."
- "Sarah, I won't come to your party if Cindy is there," Judy said. "Cindy wears old clothes and looks funny."
- "Hey, Justin," his best friend whispered. "What's the answer to question five?"

Can you tell a true story of something you did that shows God is important to you?
